Location

Norwich has a resident population of approximately 145,000 people, with a wider primary catchment in excess of 300,000 and an extended catchment of over 800,000 across Norfolk and the surrounding regions. The city is a key retail and administrative centre for East Anglia, attracting regular footfall from affluent market towns and rural communities. There is significant student population, including over 17,000 students at the University of East Anglia, alongside a strong tourism economy.

St Stephens Street is one of the principal retailing thoroughfares in the heart of Norwich, forming a busy link between Chantry Place and the historic city centre. The street benefits from strong footfall throughout the day. Nearby occupiers include Zara, Starbucks, Card Factory, Savers, Lakeland, and Specsavers.
